How we lay out a clinic landing page for paid ads

One page per concern, one job: turn a paid click into a qualified enquiry. Every block below earns its place. Built first for Amer Clinic (Skin Laxity and Glowing Skin), used as the starting point for every clinic.

1 Slim header, no menu

Logo and phone number only. A full site menu gives a paid visitor a dozen ways to leave the page we paid to bring them to.

2 Headline matches the ad

Someone who searched "neck tightening" lands on "neck tightening". The headline swaps by ad group, so the page confirms they're in the right place within a second.

Amer: "Firmer-looking skin that still looks like you"

3 Form in the first screen

Six fields: name, mobile, email, concern, plus two qualifying questions (treated before? when to start?). The clinic knows who they're calling before they pick up the phone.

4 Credentials up front, tracking hidden

Four proof points under the buttons. Hidden fields record the ad, keyword and page, so every enquiry can be traced to a booking.

AS FEATURED IN

5 Trust strip

Press, awards or reviews, in grey. Borrowed credibility right after the first screen, before we ask anyone to read.

WHAT HAS CHANGED

[Explain the cause, not the treatment]

01 CAUSE 02 CAUSE 03 CAUSE 04 CAUSE

6 Educate on the concern

Four short cards on why it's happening. It positions the clinic as the expert and explains why diagnosis comes before treatment, which is what high-value patients respond to.

Amer: bone, fat pads, ligaments, skin

WHERE A PLAN CAN LEAD

[Two treatment options]

TREATMENT A

SESSIONS DOWNTIME
RESULTS BEST FOR

from [£PRICE]

TREATMENT B

SESSIONS DOWNTIME
RESULTS BEST FOR

from [£PRICE]

7 Options with honest specs and prices

Two treatments at most, each with sessions, downtime, results, who it's for, and a "from" price. Prices filter out bargain-hunters before they enquire, so the clinic calls fewer wrong leads.

WHO IT SUITS

[You're a good fit if]

WHEN WE SAY NO

8 Who it suits, and when we say no

Saying who the treatment isn't for builds more trust than any claim, and it pre-qualifies. Patients self-select before they fill in the form.

CLINICIAN PORTRAIT

YOUR CLINICIAN

[Name, qualifications]

QUALIFICATION ROLE YEARS

9 The clinician, by name and face

People book a person, not a machine. A real portrait, qualifications and their philosophy in their own words. Most clinic pages bury this at the bottom.

RESULTS · OPTIONAL

BEFORE / AFTER BEFORE / AFTER BEFORE / AFTER

CAPTION: TREATMENT · SESSIONS · TIME BETWEEN PHOTOS · RESULTS VARY

10 Real results, page only

Consented, unretouched and typical, with a caption. Never in the ads themselves, and never for prescription-only treatments. Hidden for Meta traffic if needed.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN YOU VISIT

STEP 1 STEP 2 STEP 3 STEP 4

11 What happens next

Four steps from enquiry to decision, ending with "no pressure to book on the day". It takes the fear out of the first appointment.

QUESTIONS BEFORE YOU BOOK

\+ \+ \+ \+

12 FAQs that answer objections

Downtime, pain, cost, "will I look different?", "is it right for my skin tone?". The questions the clinic hears on every call, answered before the call.

CALL

13 One last ask

Repeat the two actions at the bottom for people who read everything. Both buttons go back to the form at the top, never to a separate contact page.

ALWAYS

One page per concern. The clinic's own photography. Loads in under 2 seconds. Every enquiry tagged with its ad.

NEVER

A site menu. Discounts or countdown timers. Stock photos. A booking button that leaves the page.

WE MEASURE

Enquiries per click, share that fit, consultations attended, treatment value against ad spend.
